Parent

A parent or guardian finds a dojo, creates a family account and signs their children up for sessions. Parents don't need approval or a background check: they only ever manage their own children.

Screenshots taken on the development site (seeded demo data) as guardian-5 (seeded parent of Lotte, 14, and Olivia, 16), 17 October 2026.

Step 1

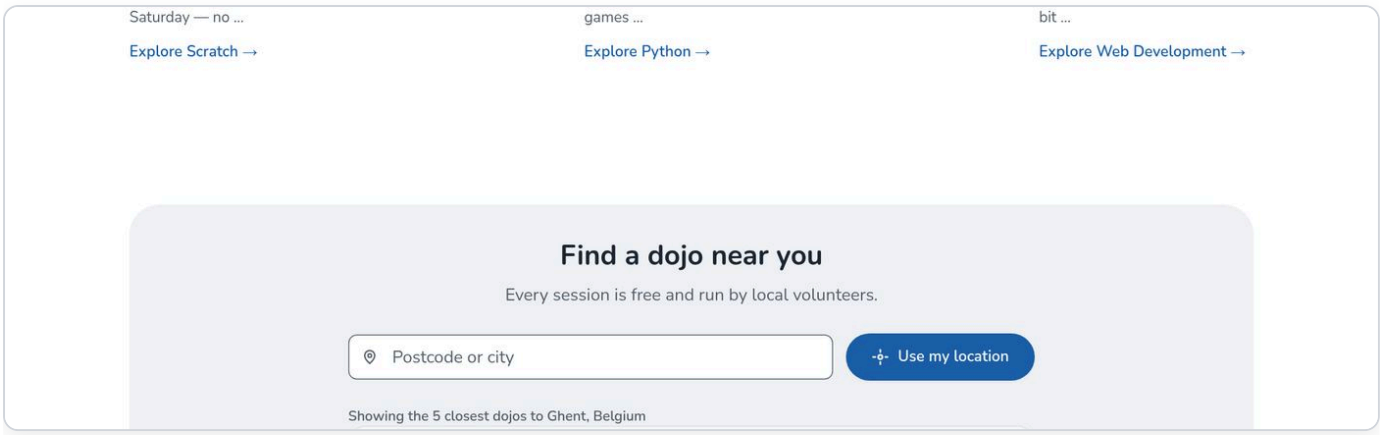

Discover CoderDojo

A parent lands on the homepage. Featured events take turns at the top, one at a time, and the dojo finder and the upcoming-sessions carousel are right there, no account needed.

Step 1 Discover CoderDojo (continued)

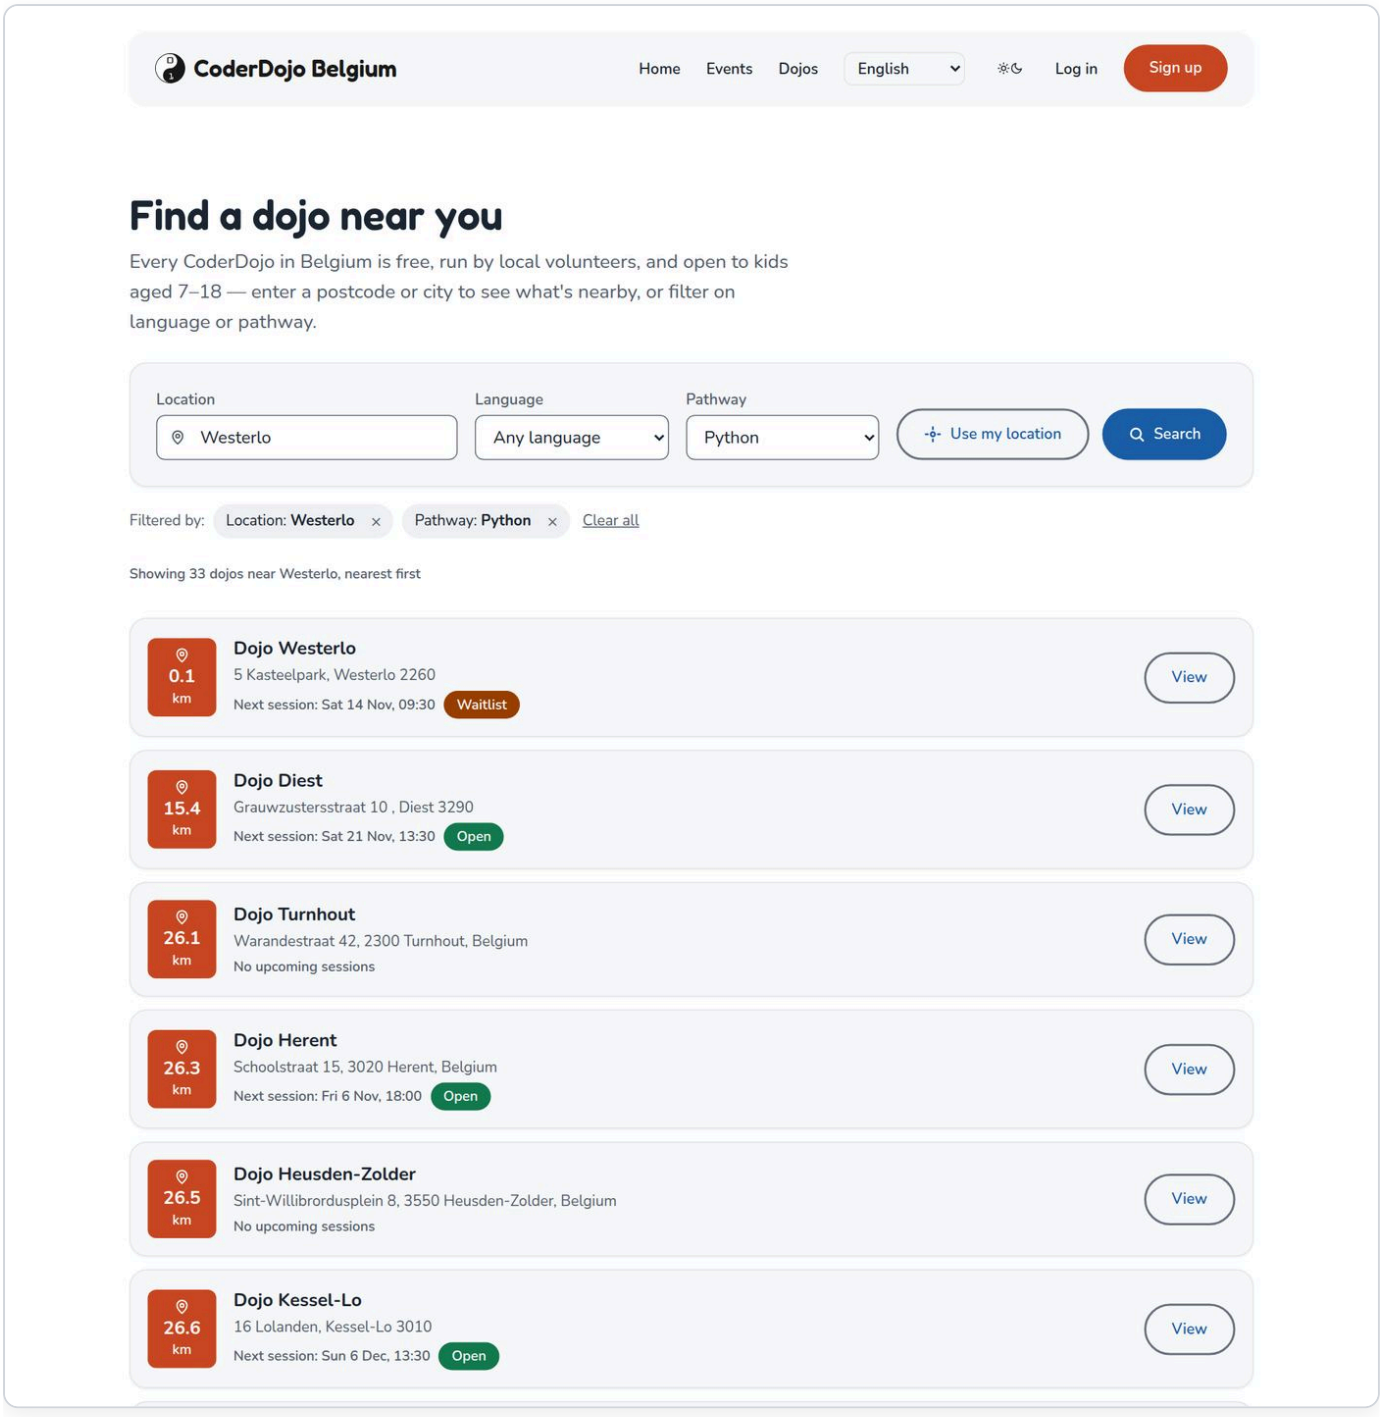

Step 2

Find a dojo nearby

The dojo finder sorts dojos by distance from a typed address, the browser's location or (logged in) the family's postcode, and filters them by language and pathway; each applied filter shows as a chip that removes it.

`/dojos/?location=Westerlo&pathway=2`

Step 3

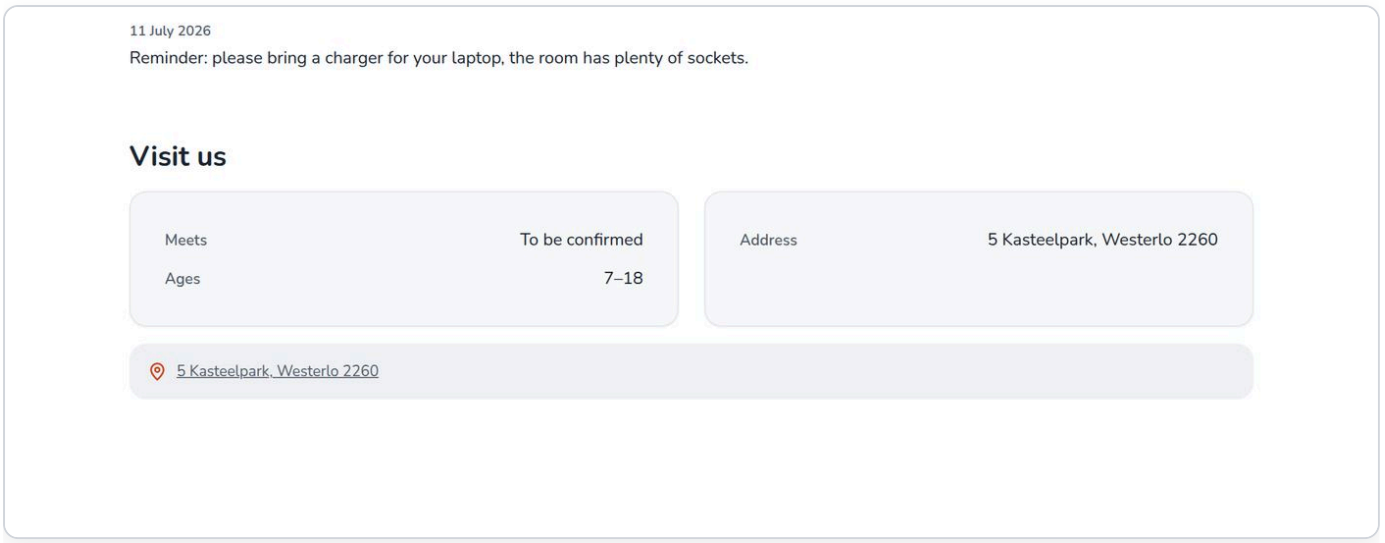

A dojo's page

Each dojo has a page with its languages, next sessions, team, updates and the pathways it offers.

`/dojos/51/`

Step 3 A dojo's page (continued)

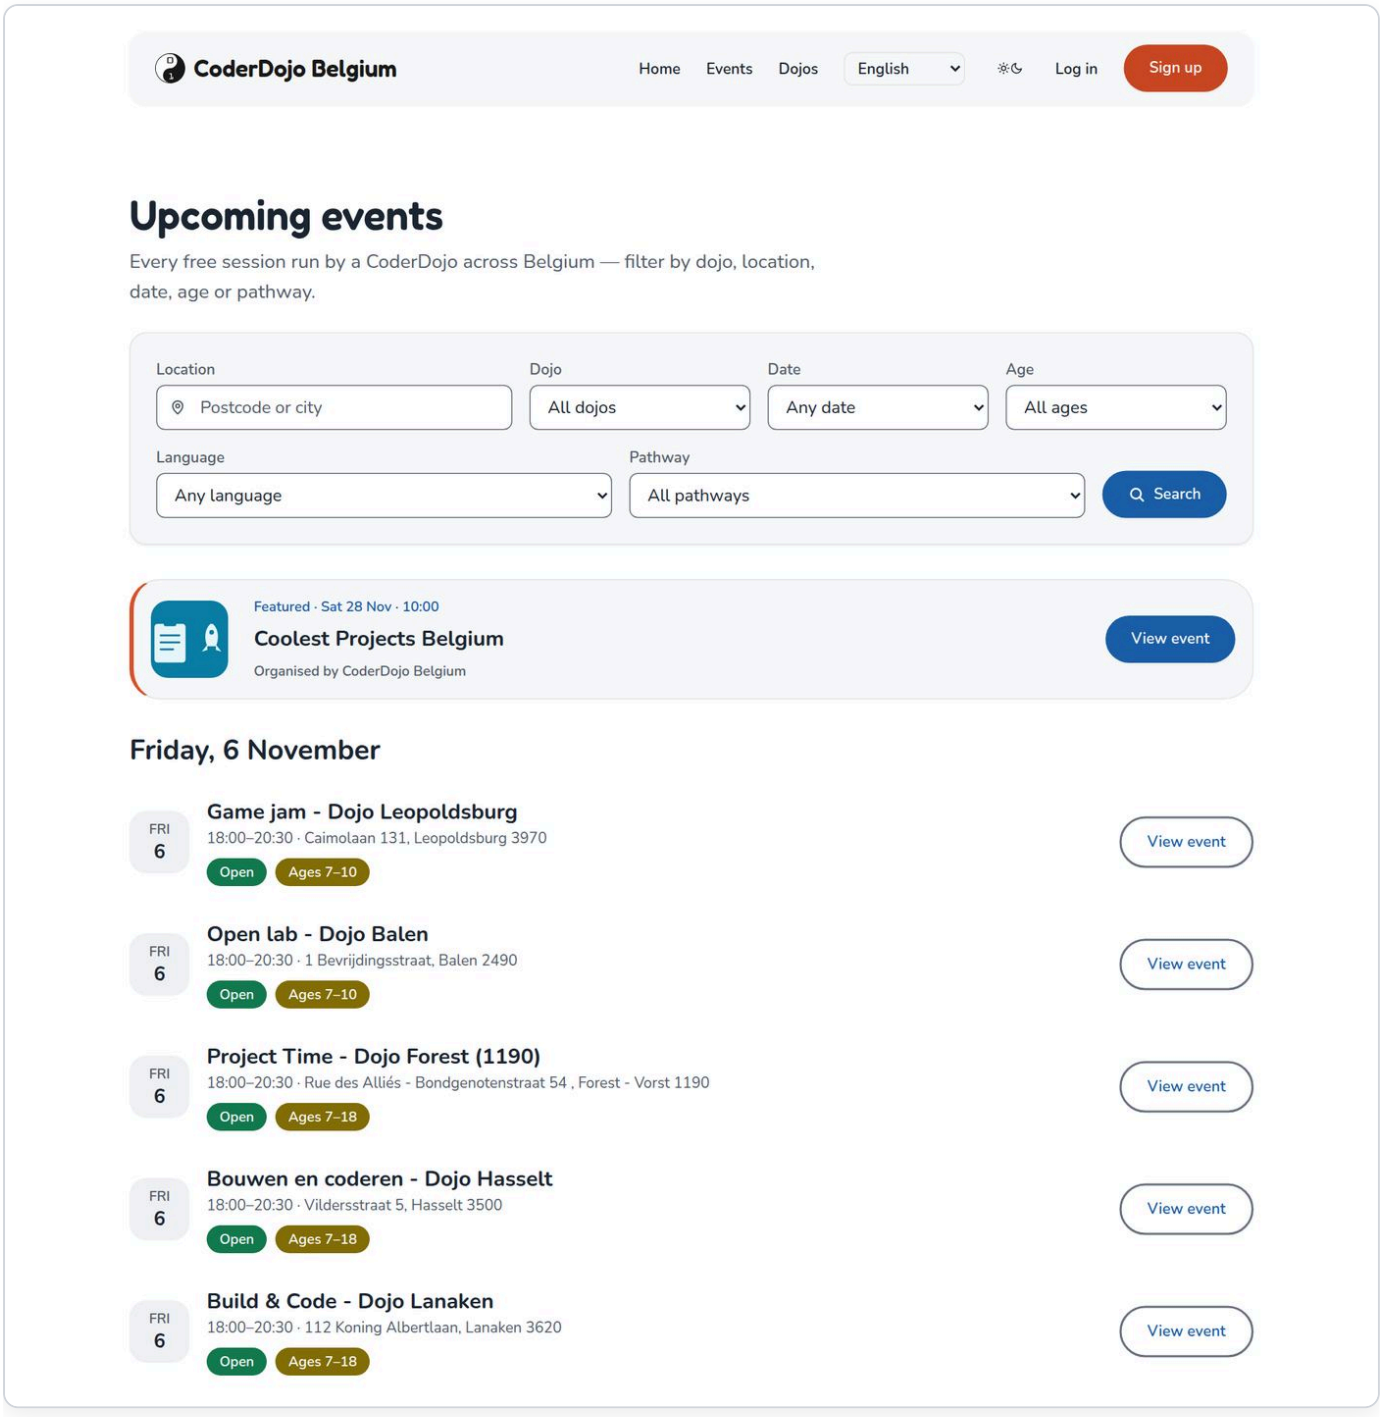

Step 4

Browse sessions

All upcoming sessions, near a place or not, filterable by dojo, date, age, language and pathway.

`/events/`

Step 4 Browse sessions (continued)

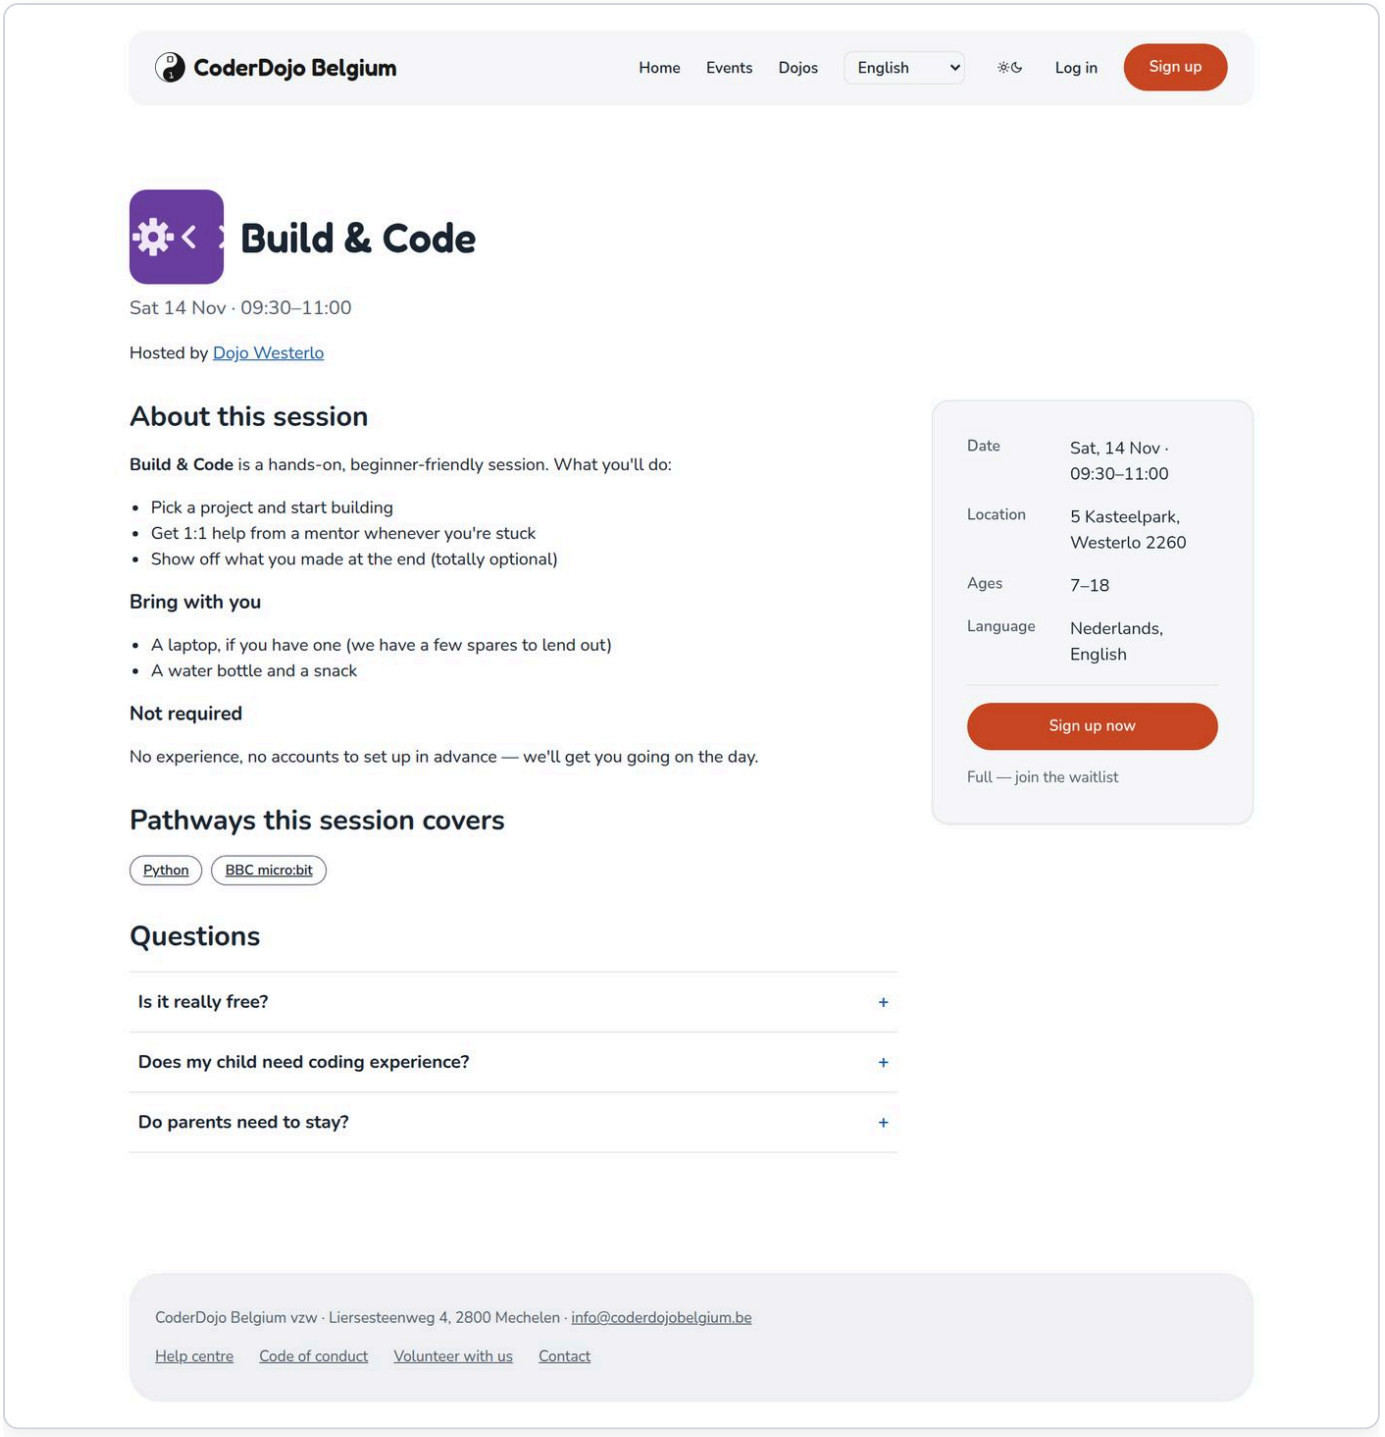

Step 5

A full session

When a session is full, families can still join the waiting list; they move up automatically when a place frees up.

`/events/77/`

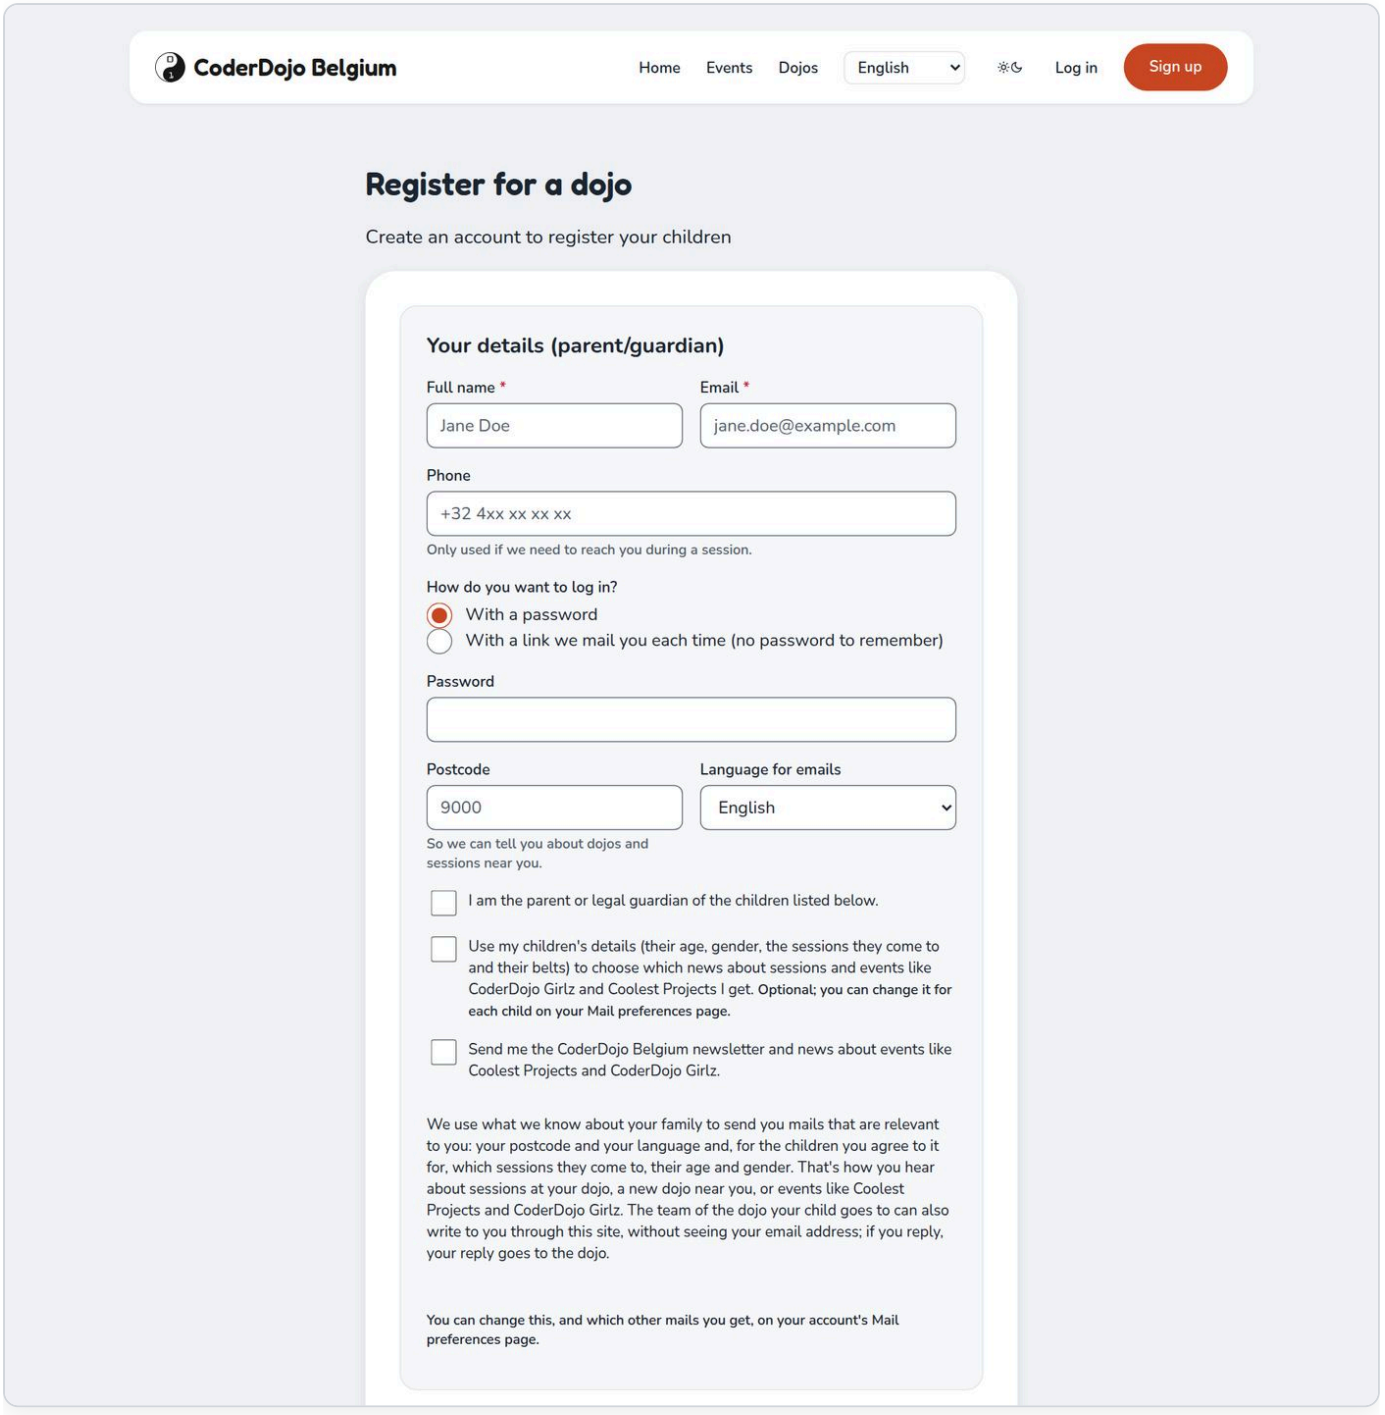

Step 6

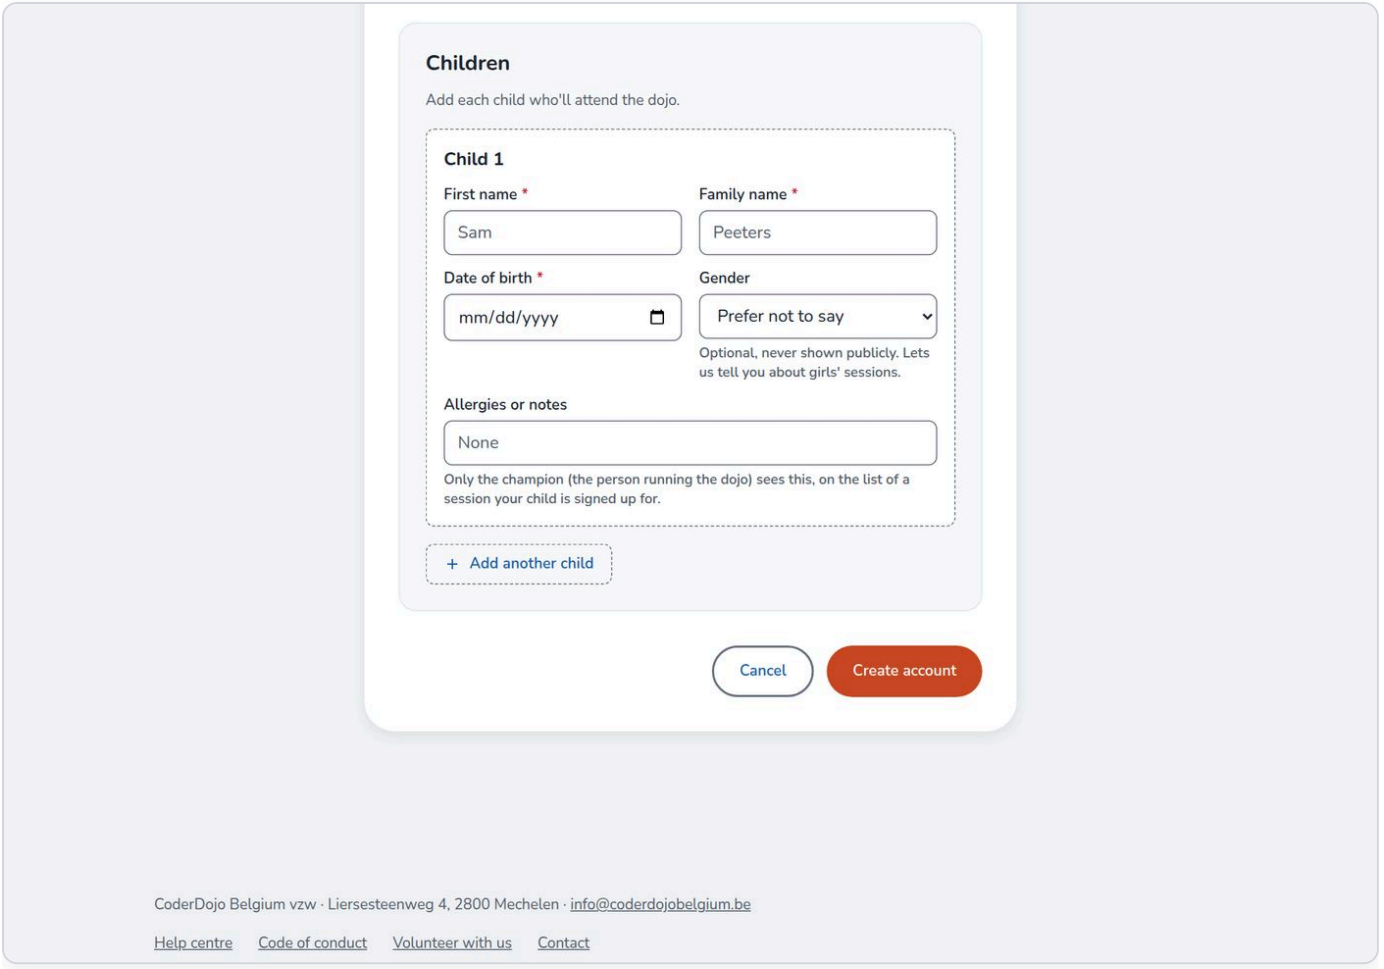

Create a family account

Self-service sign-up: the parent's details, one row per child (add more with “Add another child”), mail language and optional consents. No approval needed.

`/register/guardian/`

Step 6 Create a family account (continued)

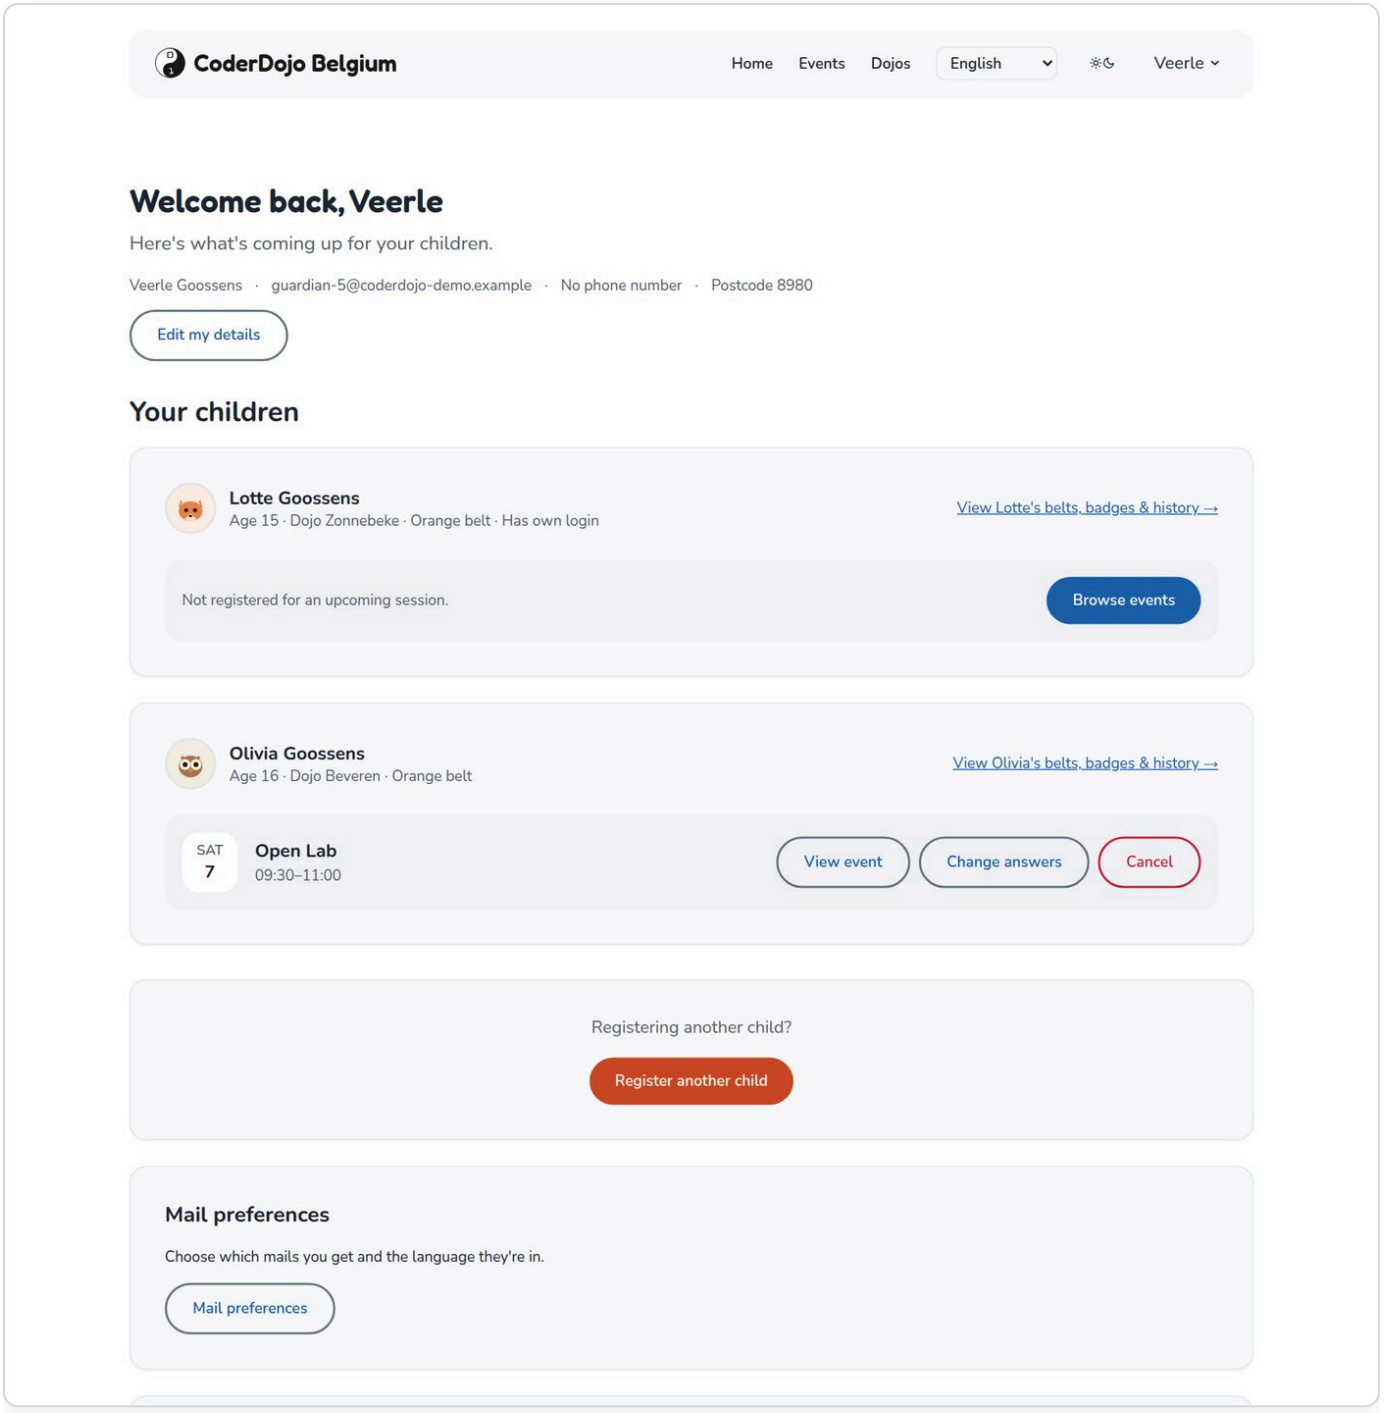

Step 7

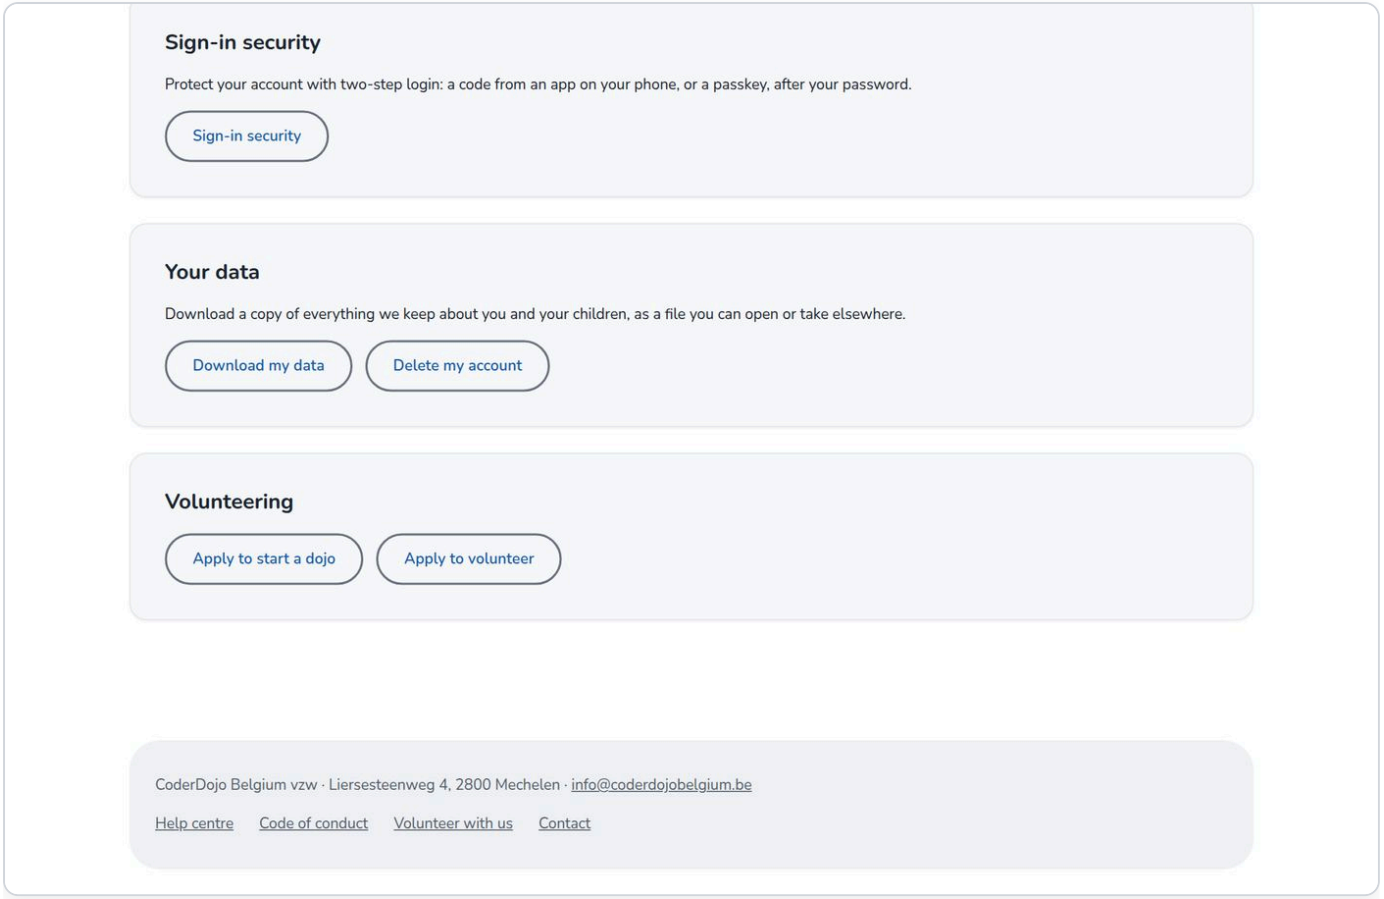

The family's account page

After logging in, the account page shows the parent's details (edited in place), each child, their upcoming places (and waiting-list positions) and links to mail preferences, security and privacy.

`/account/`

Step 7 The family's account page (continued)

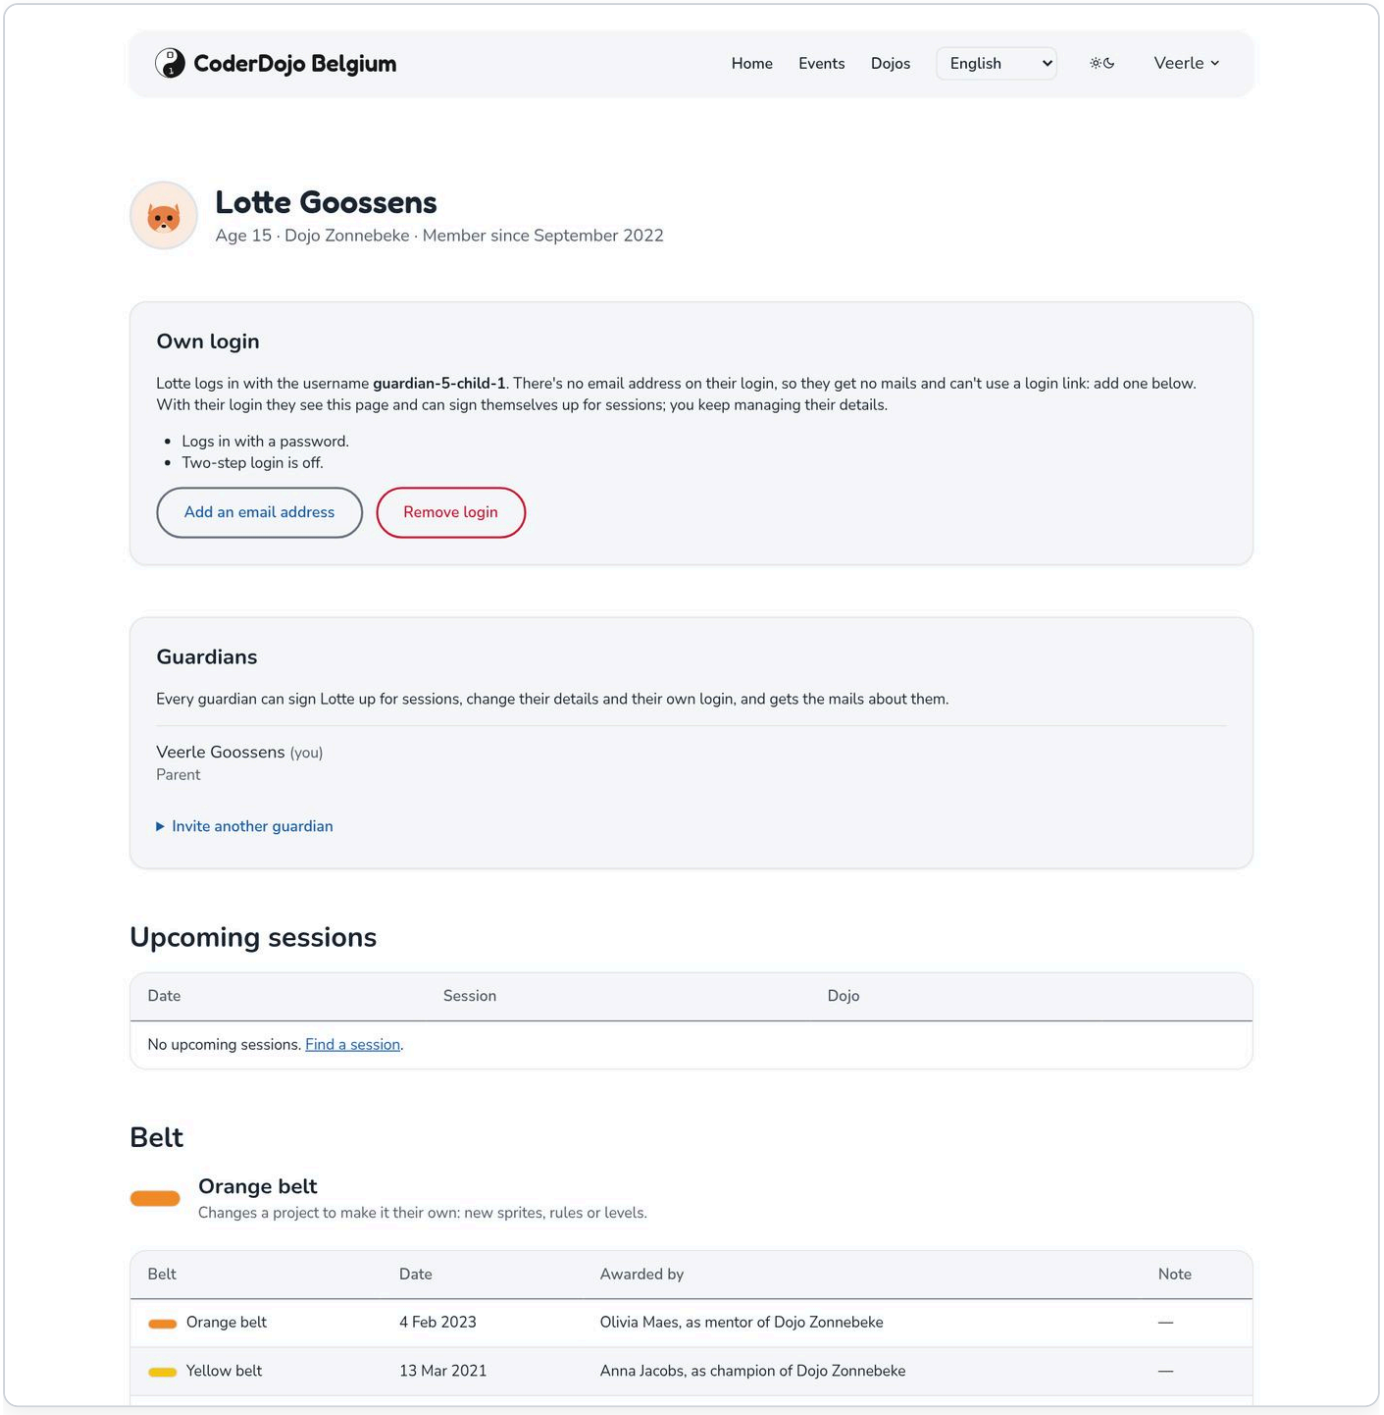

Step 8

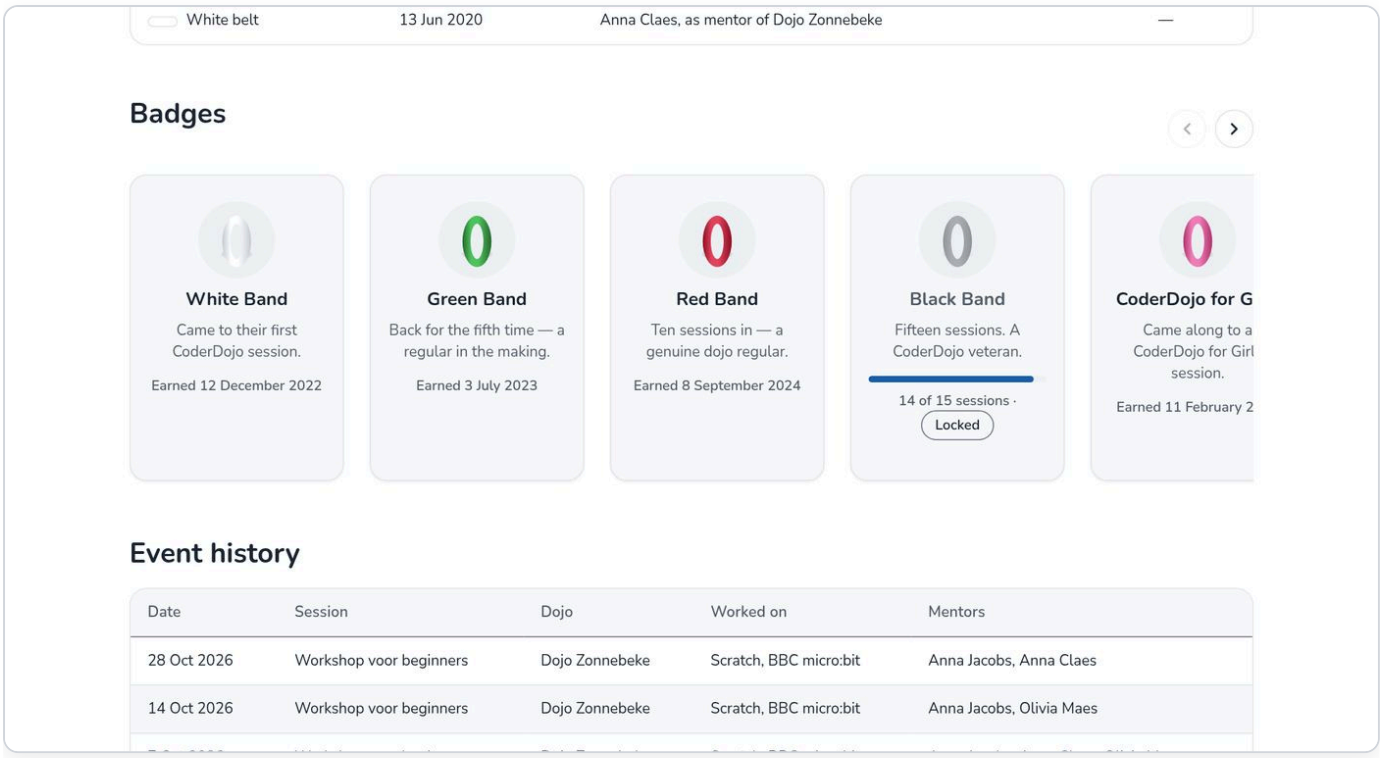

A child's page

Per child: details, belt, badges, sessions attended and upcoming, whether the child has a login of their own, and the child's guardians, where a parent invites another (the other parent, a grandparent).

`/account/ninja/9/`

Step 9

Pick a session

The parent opens a session at the child's home dojo.

`/events/2990/`

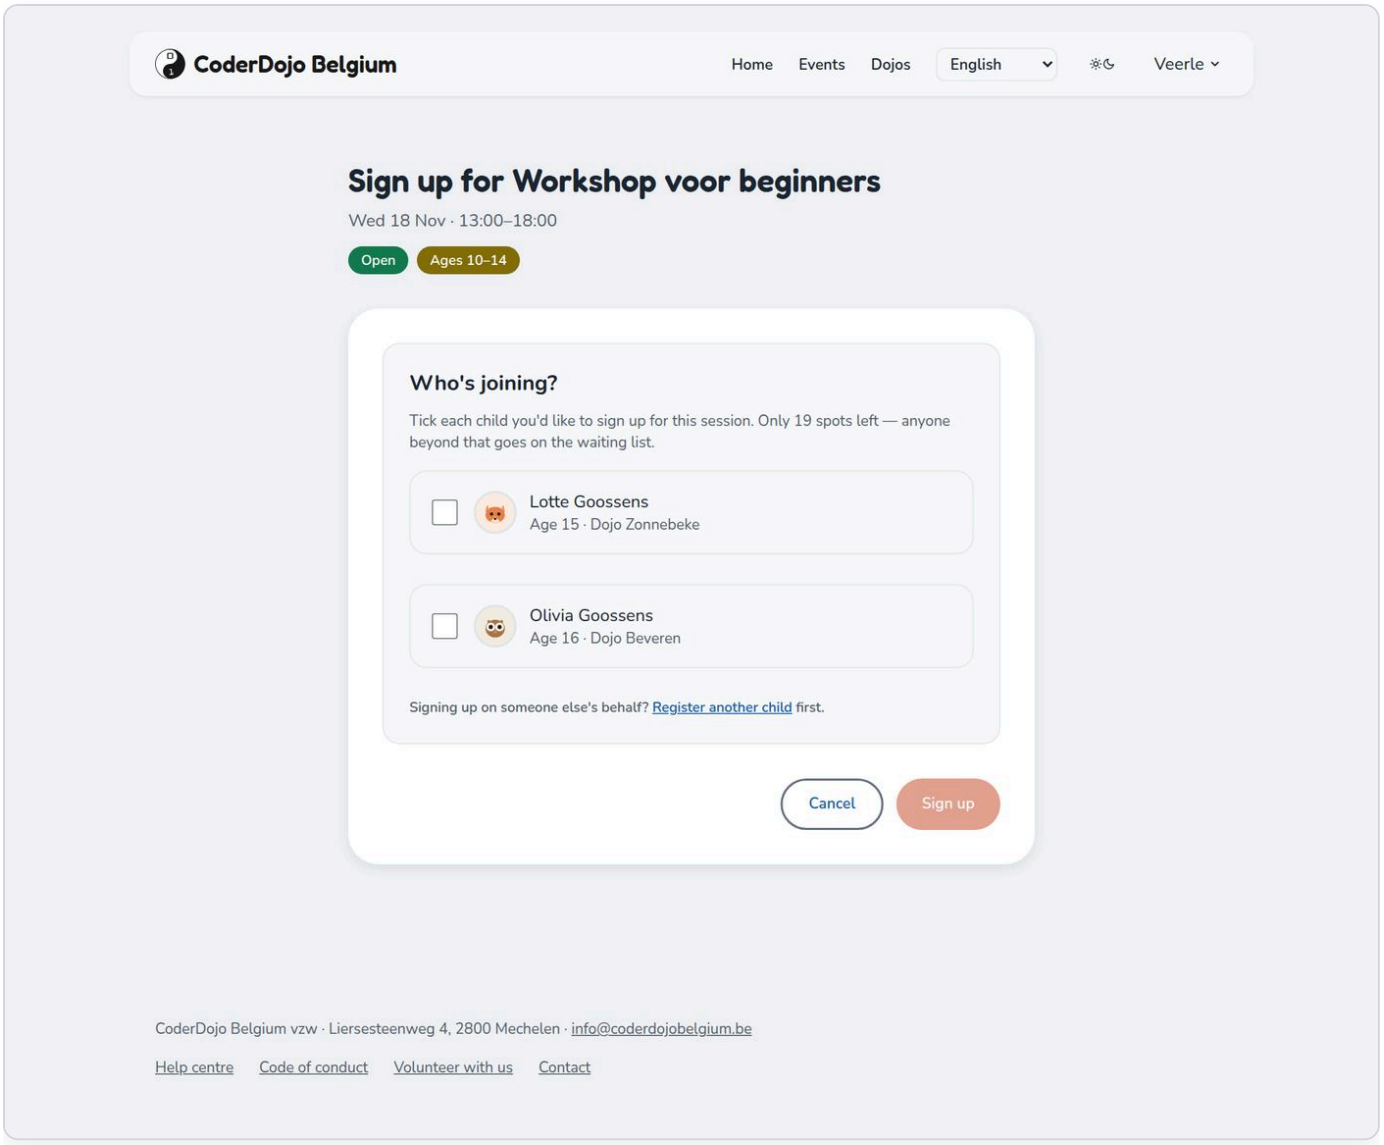

Step 10

Choose which children go

The sign-up page lists the family's children; the ones already signed up are marked.

`/events/2990/signup/`

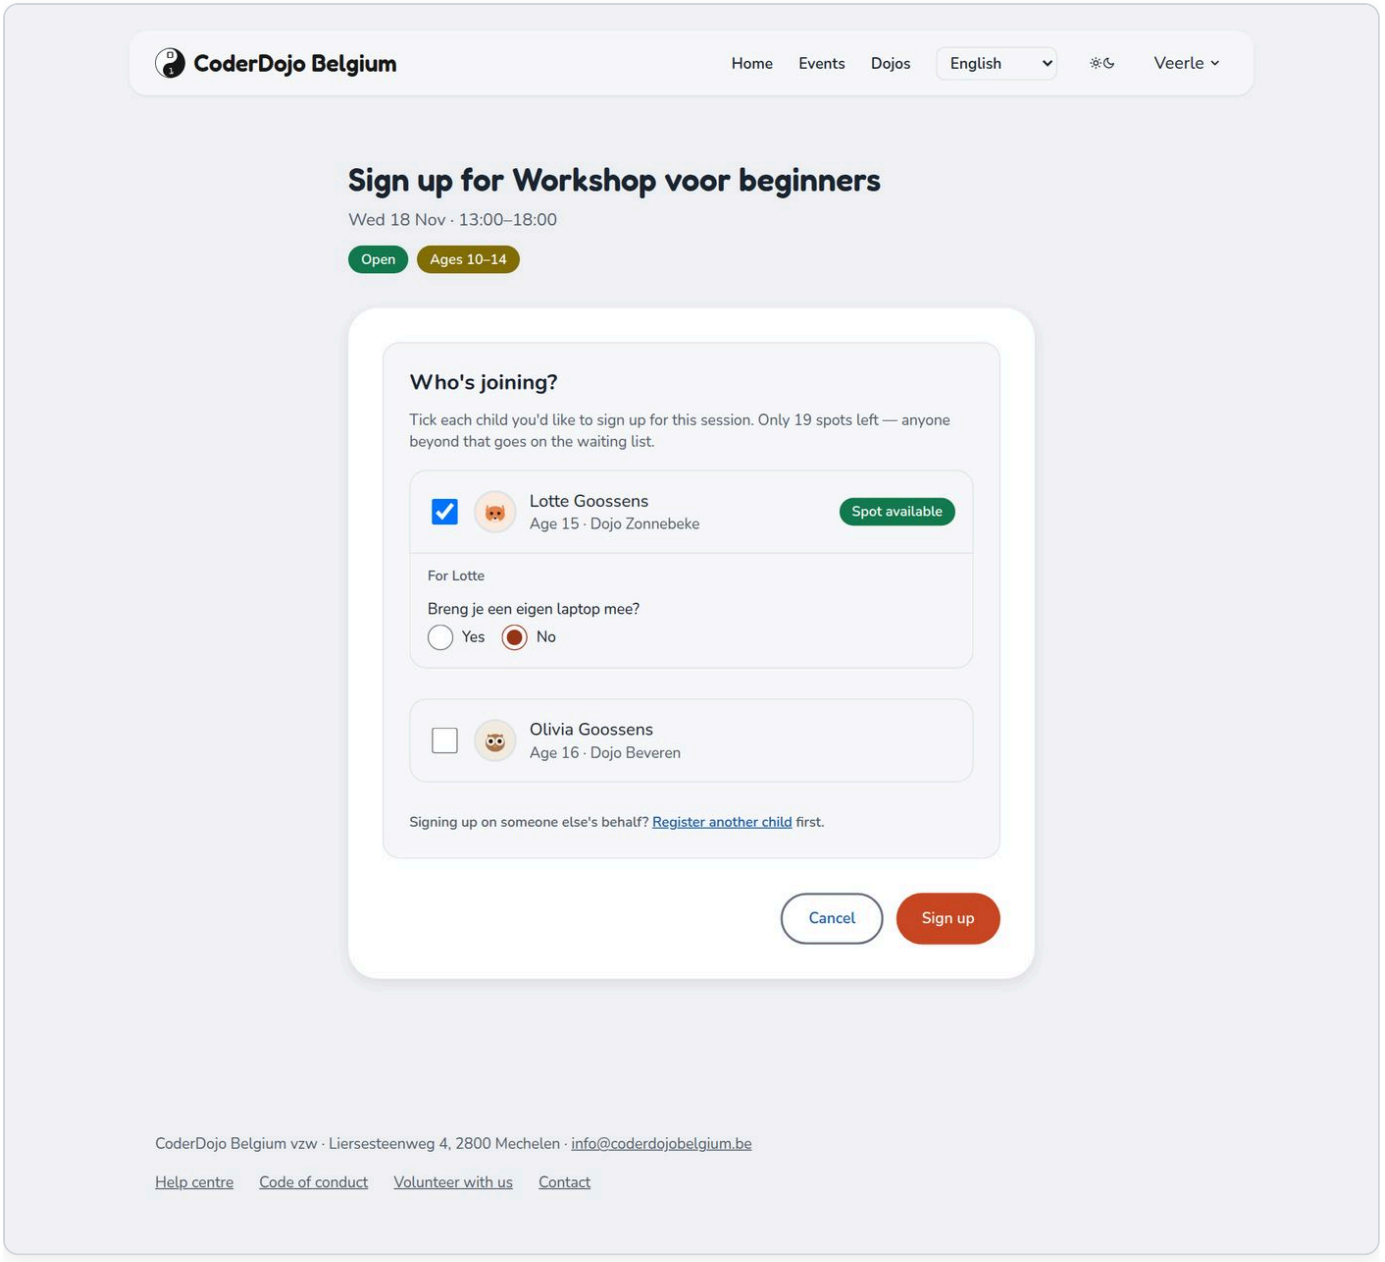

Step 11

Answer the dojo's questions and confirm

Tick the children. When the dojo asks something, such as whether the child brings their own laptop, each ticked child gets the questions to answer with yes or no. Then confirm.

`/events/2990/signup/`

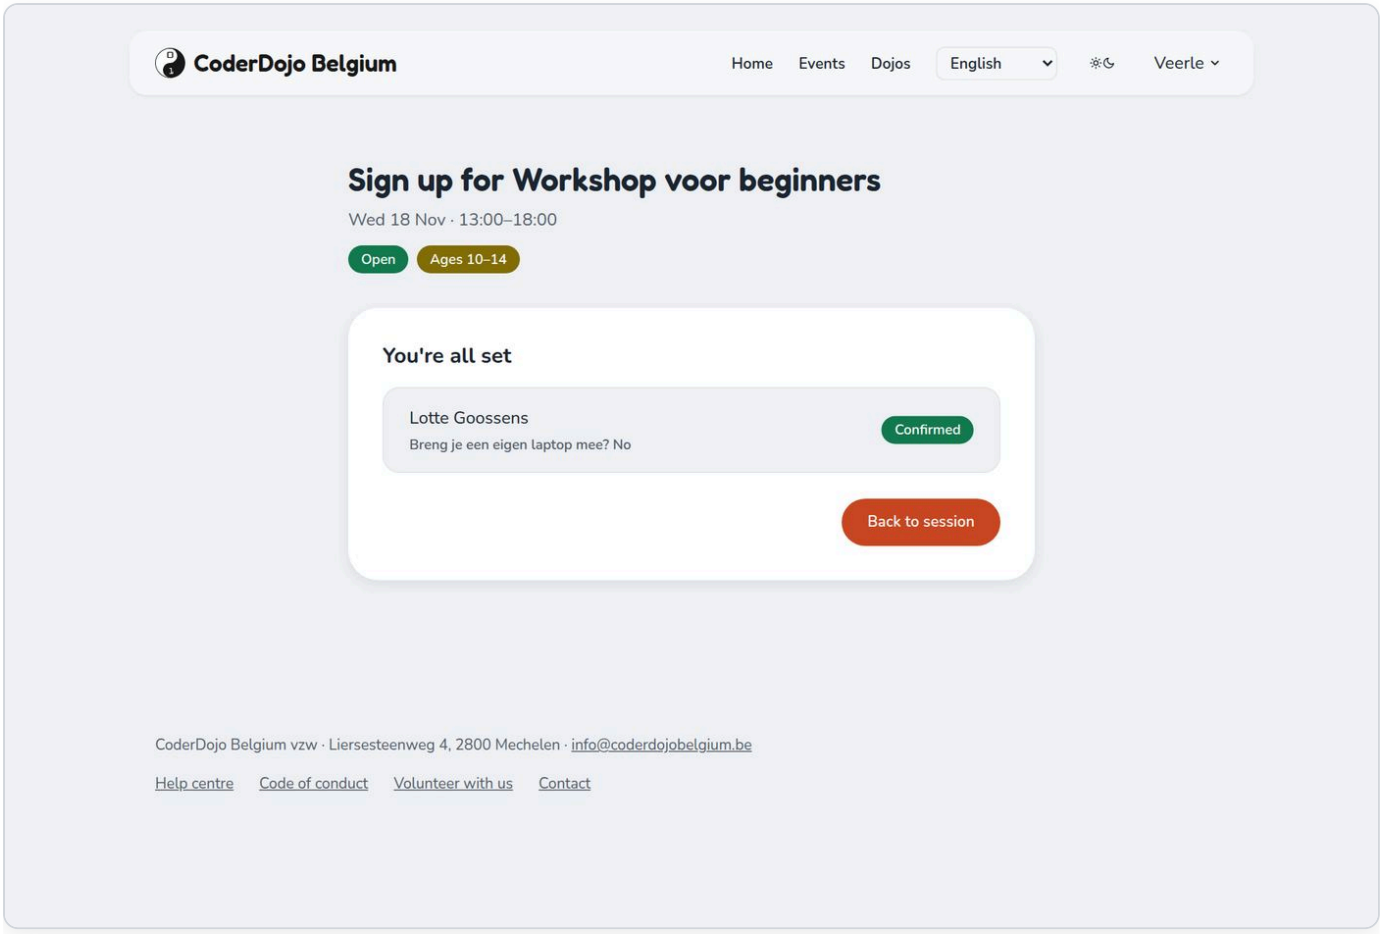

Step 12

Signed up

The place is confirmed on the spot (or the child joins the waiting list), with the answers given, and a confirmation mail is queued.

`/events/2990/signup/`

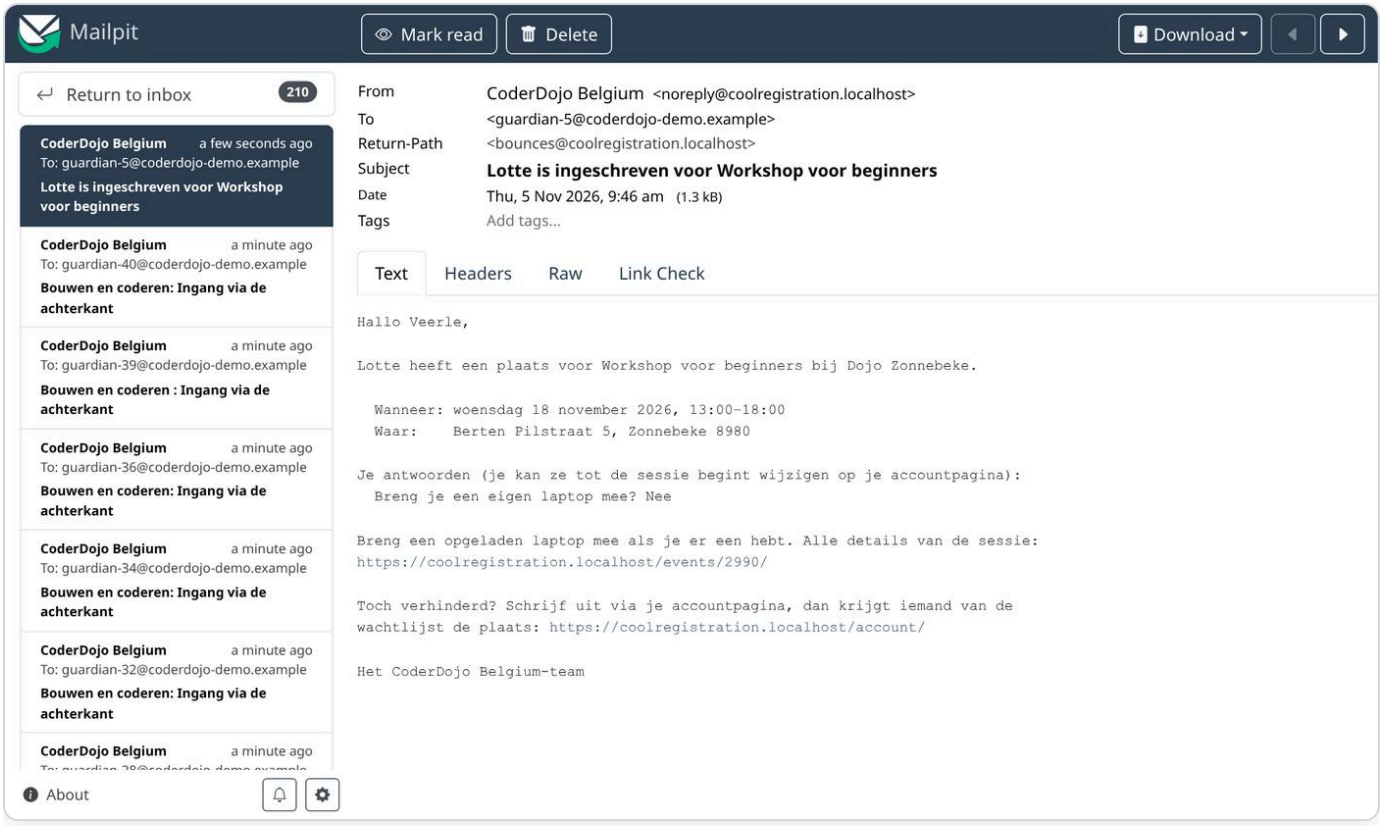

Step 13

The confirmation mail

The booking confirmation arrives in the parent's chosen mail language (here Dutch), with the answers to the dojo's questions. In development every mail lands in Mailpit.

`/mails/view/3W36cRmngFoCCvVKaLuZlq`

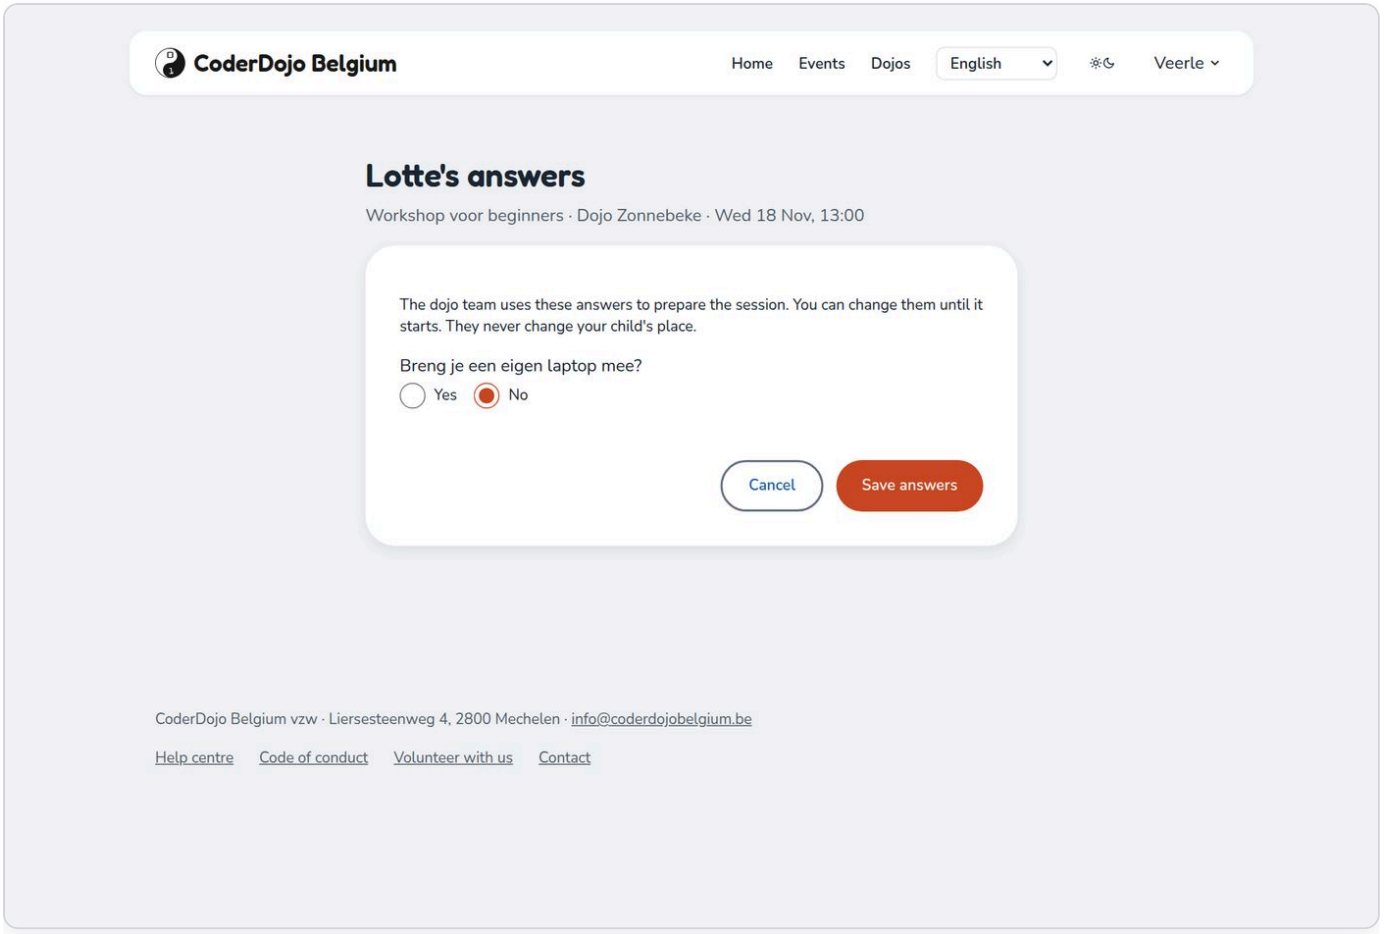

Step 14

Changing the answers

Until the session starts, Change answers next to each place lets the family change them (or answer a question the dojo added later). The dojo's team gets a notification.

`/account/registration/2451/answers/`

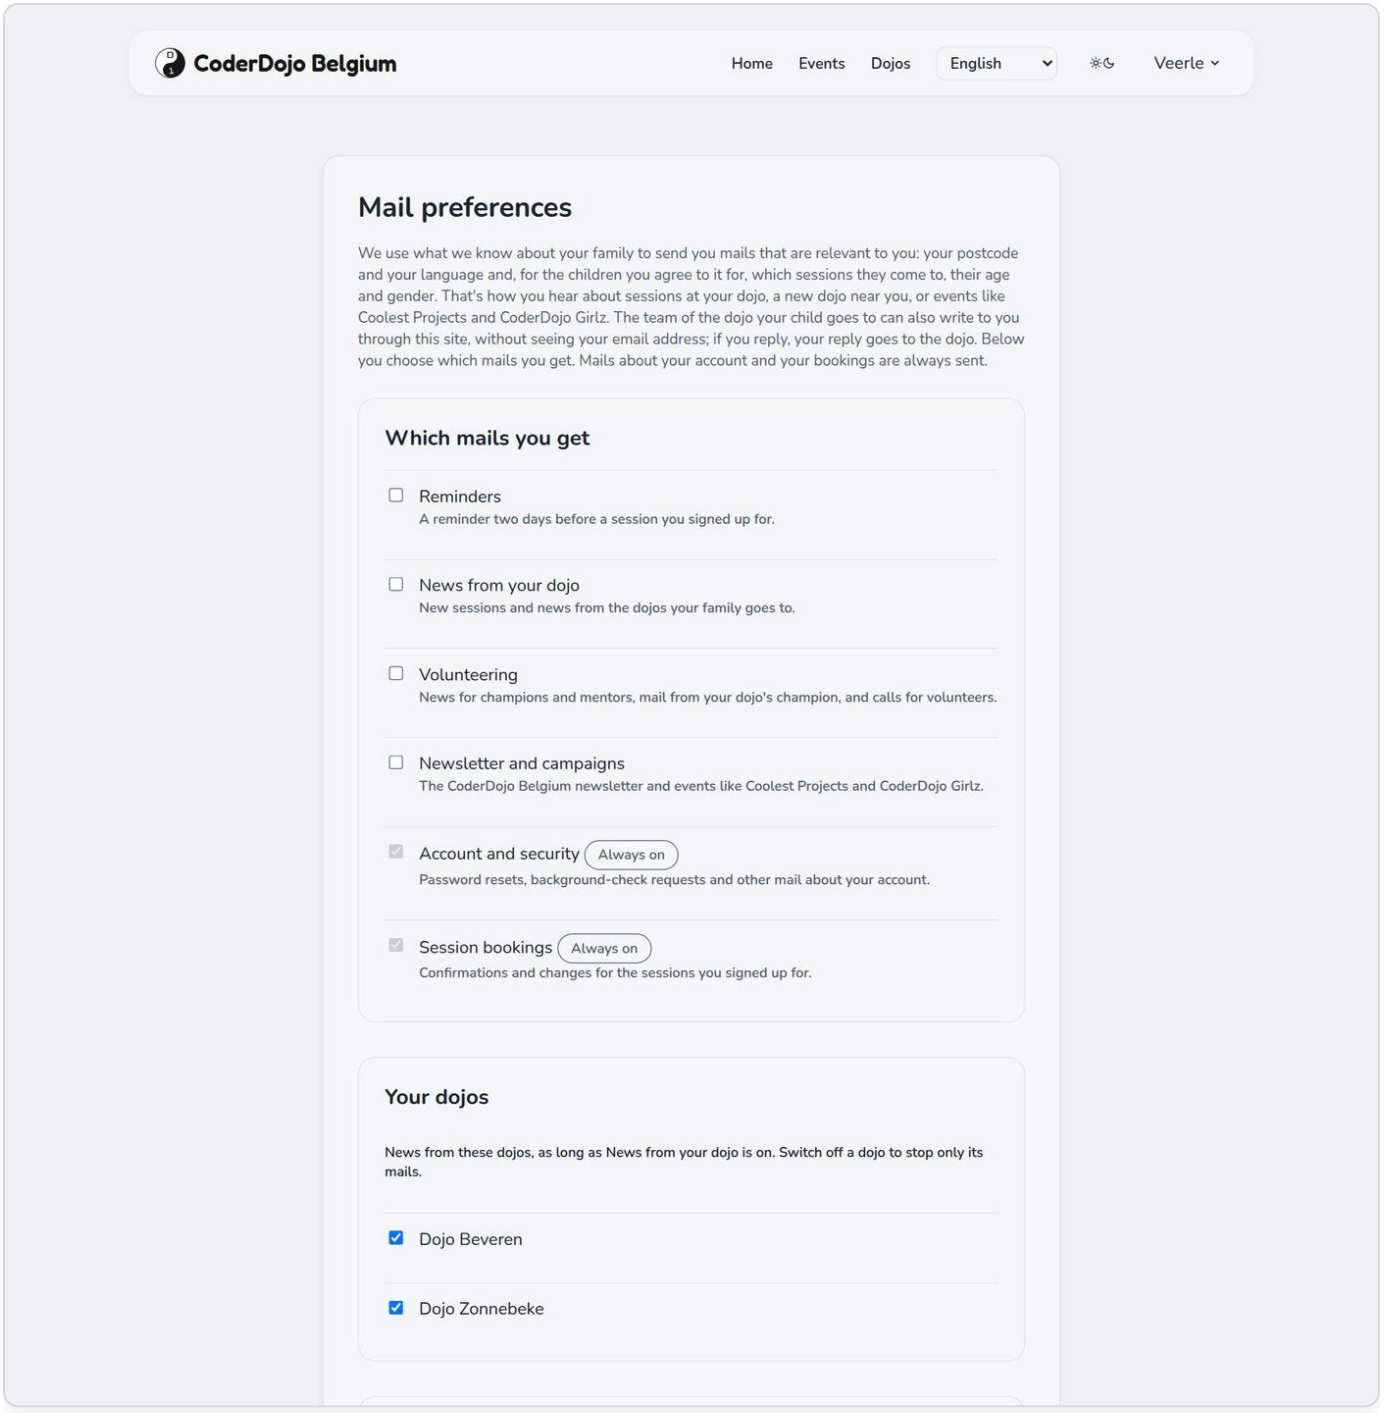

Step 15

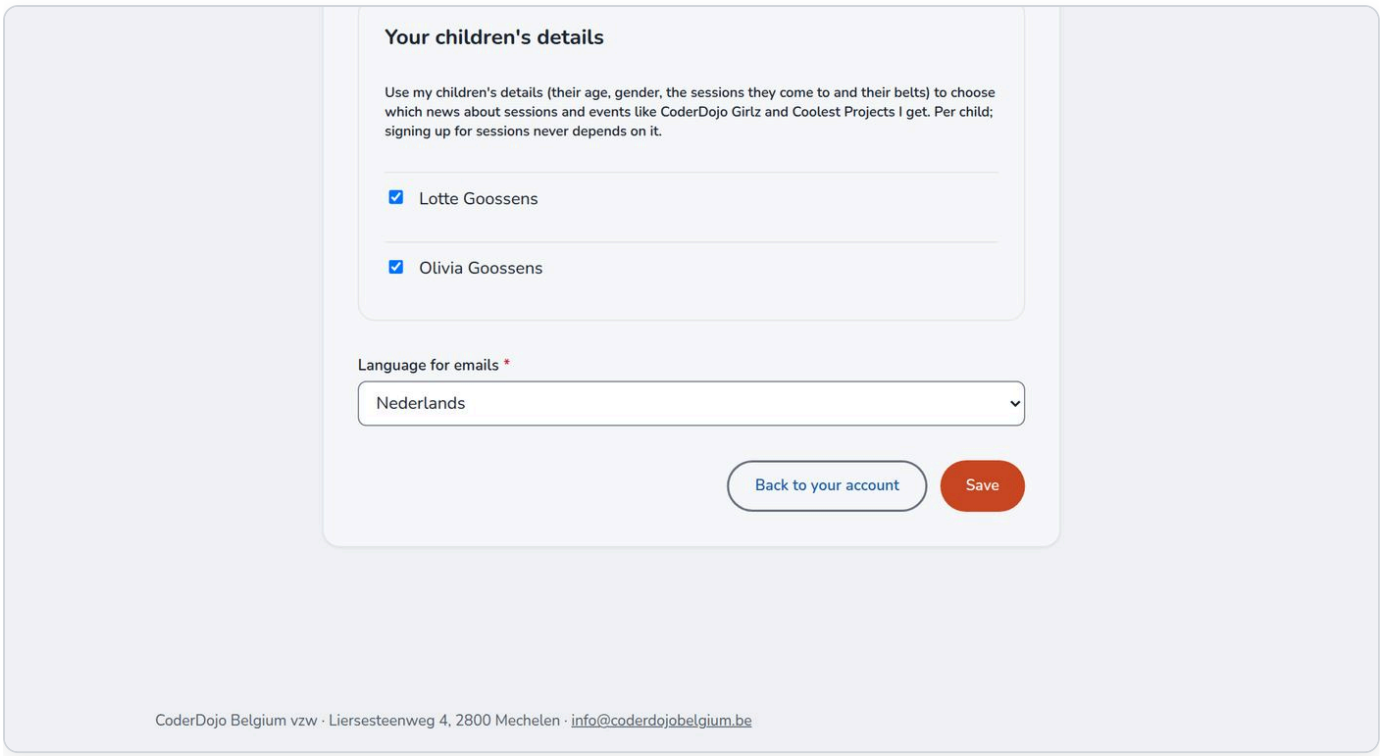

Mail preferences

The parent chooses which kinds of mail they get, mutes a dojo's news, and gives or withdraws consent per child.

`/account/mail/`

Step 15 Mail preferences (continued)

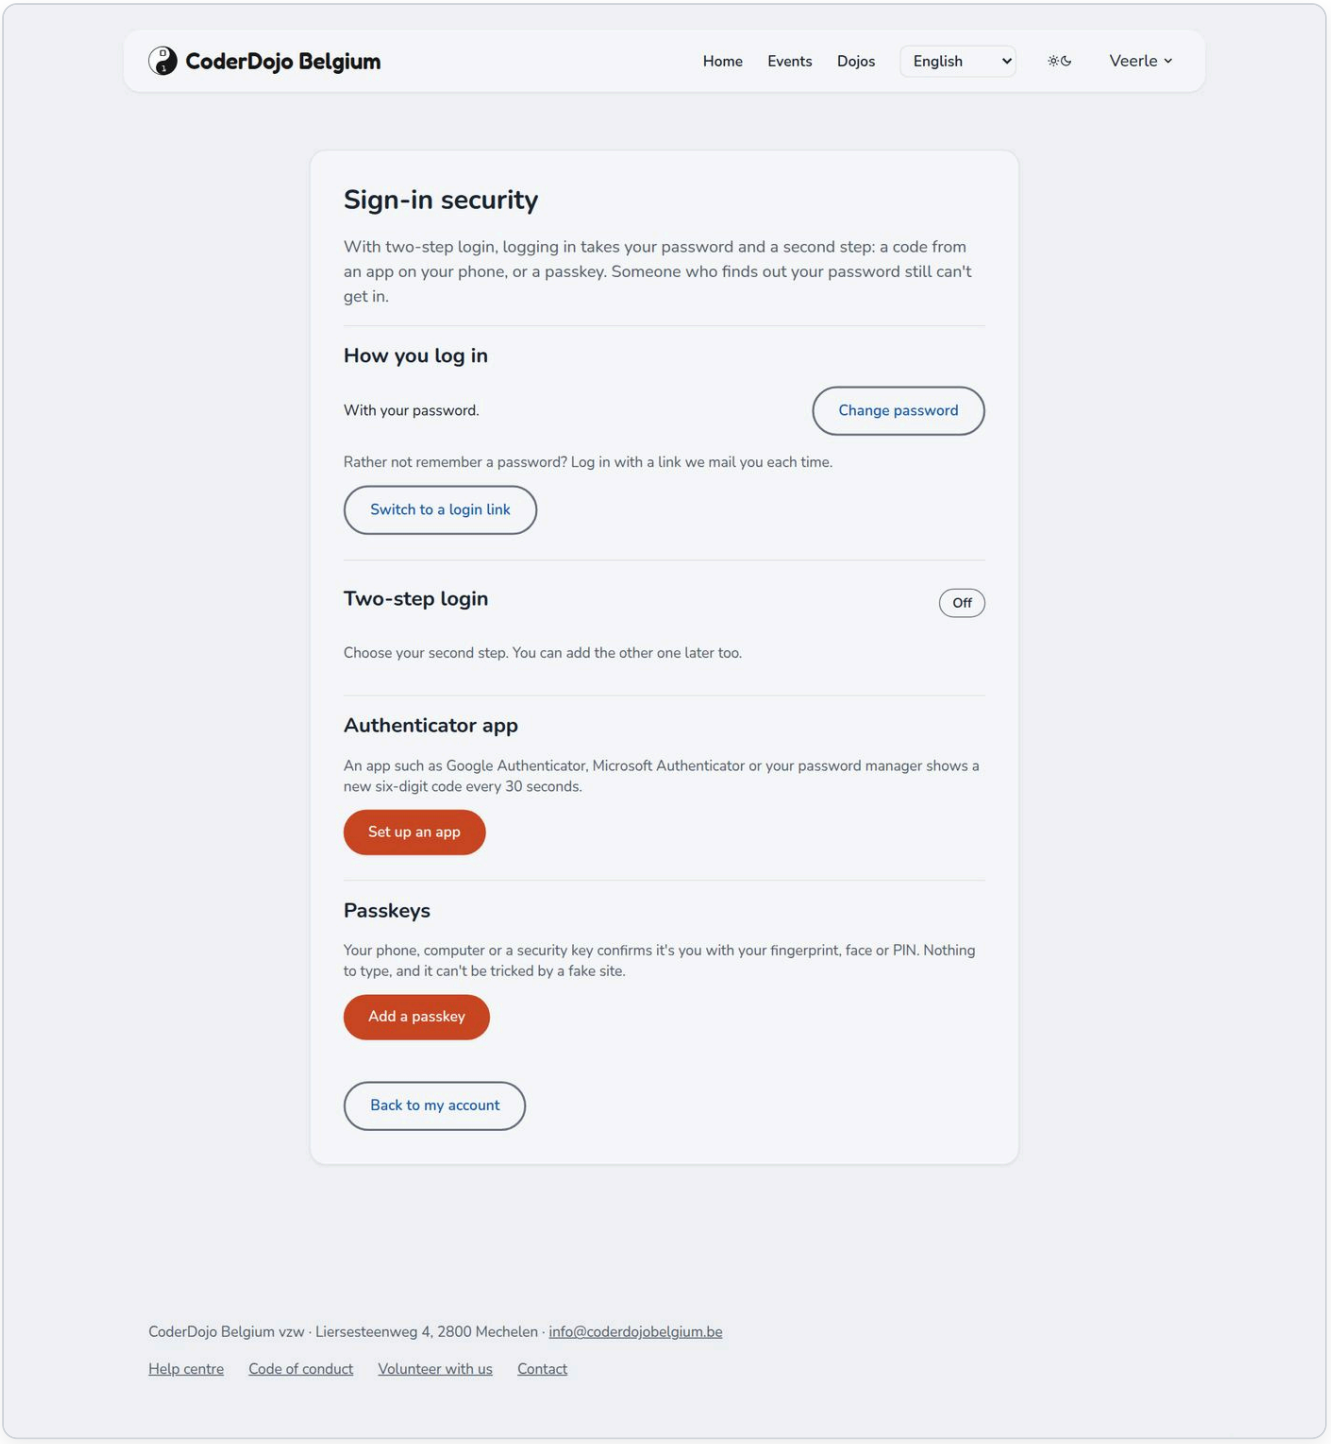

Step 16

Sign-in security

Optional two-step login (authenticator app, passkeys, backup codes), or switching to login links instead of a password.

`/account/security/`

Step 17

Privacy: export or delete

From the account page the family downloads all its data, or deletes the account after confirming with the password.

`/account/delete/`
