The journey

- Sign in with two-step login
- Work through the queue of background checks
- Validate or reject a document (which is then deleted)
- Approve or decline mentor and champion applications

Steps in this document

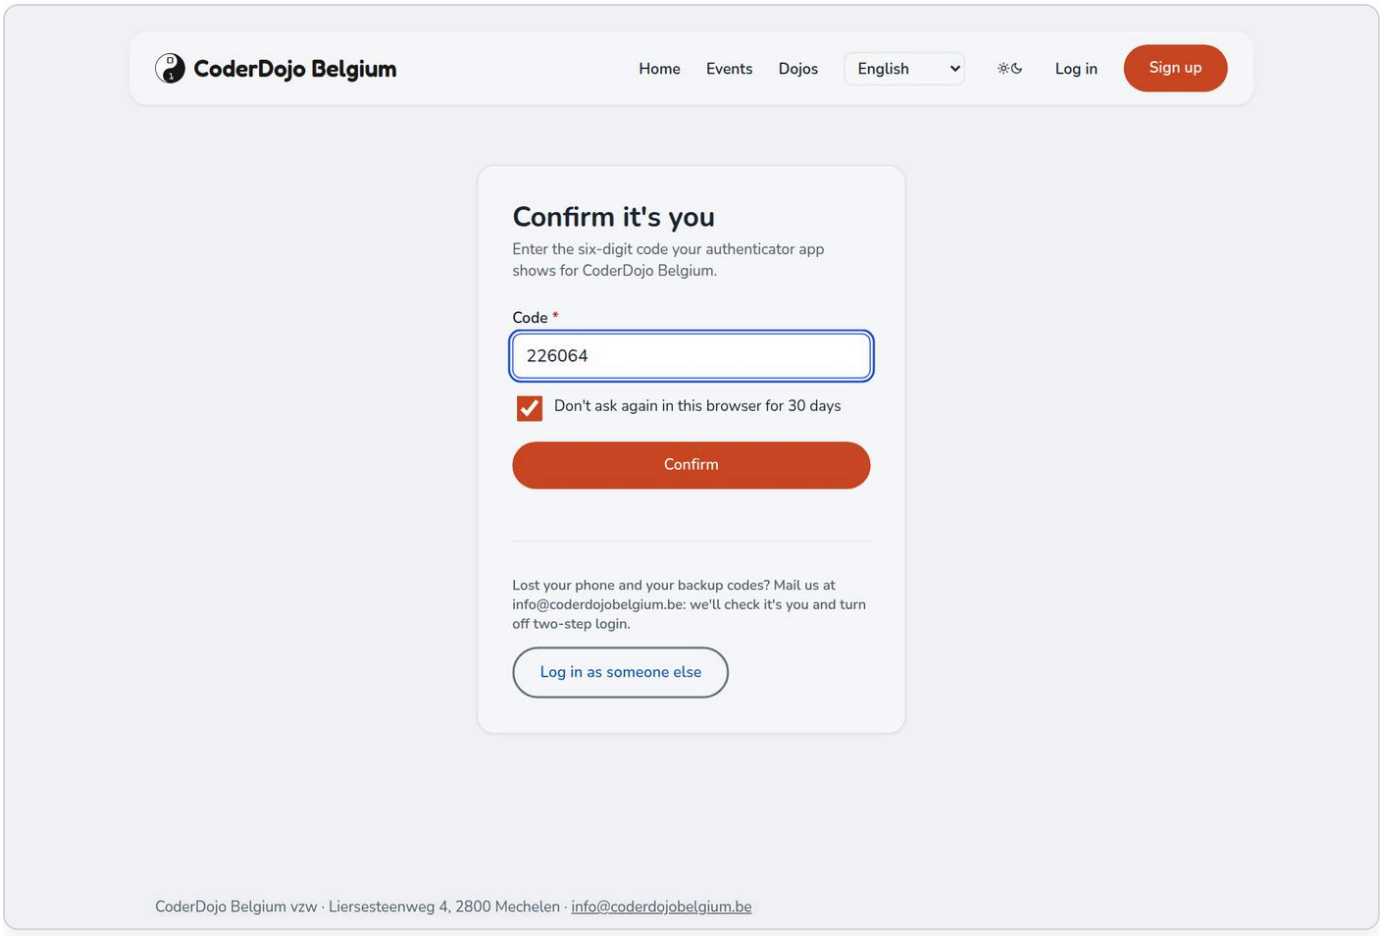

1. Two-step login
2. Background checks
3. Reviewing one check
4. Applications
5. Deciding an application

Step 1

Two-step login

Reviewers see criminal-record extracts, so this account signs in with a code from an authenticator app after the password (passkeys and backup codes work too). The organisation can require this per role.

`/login/`

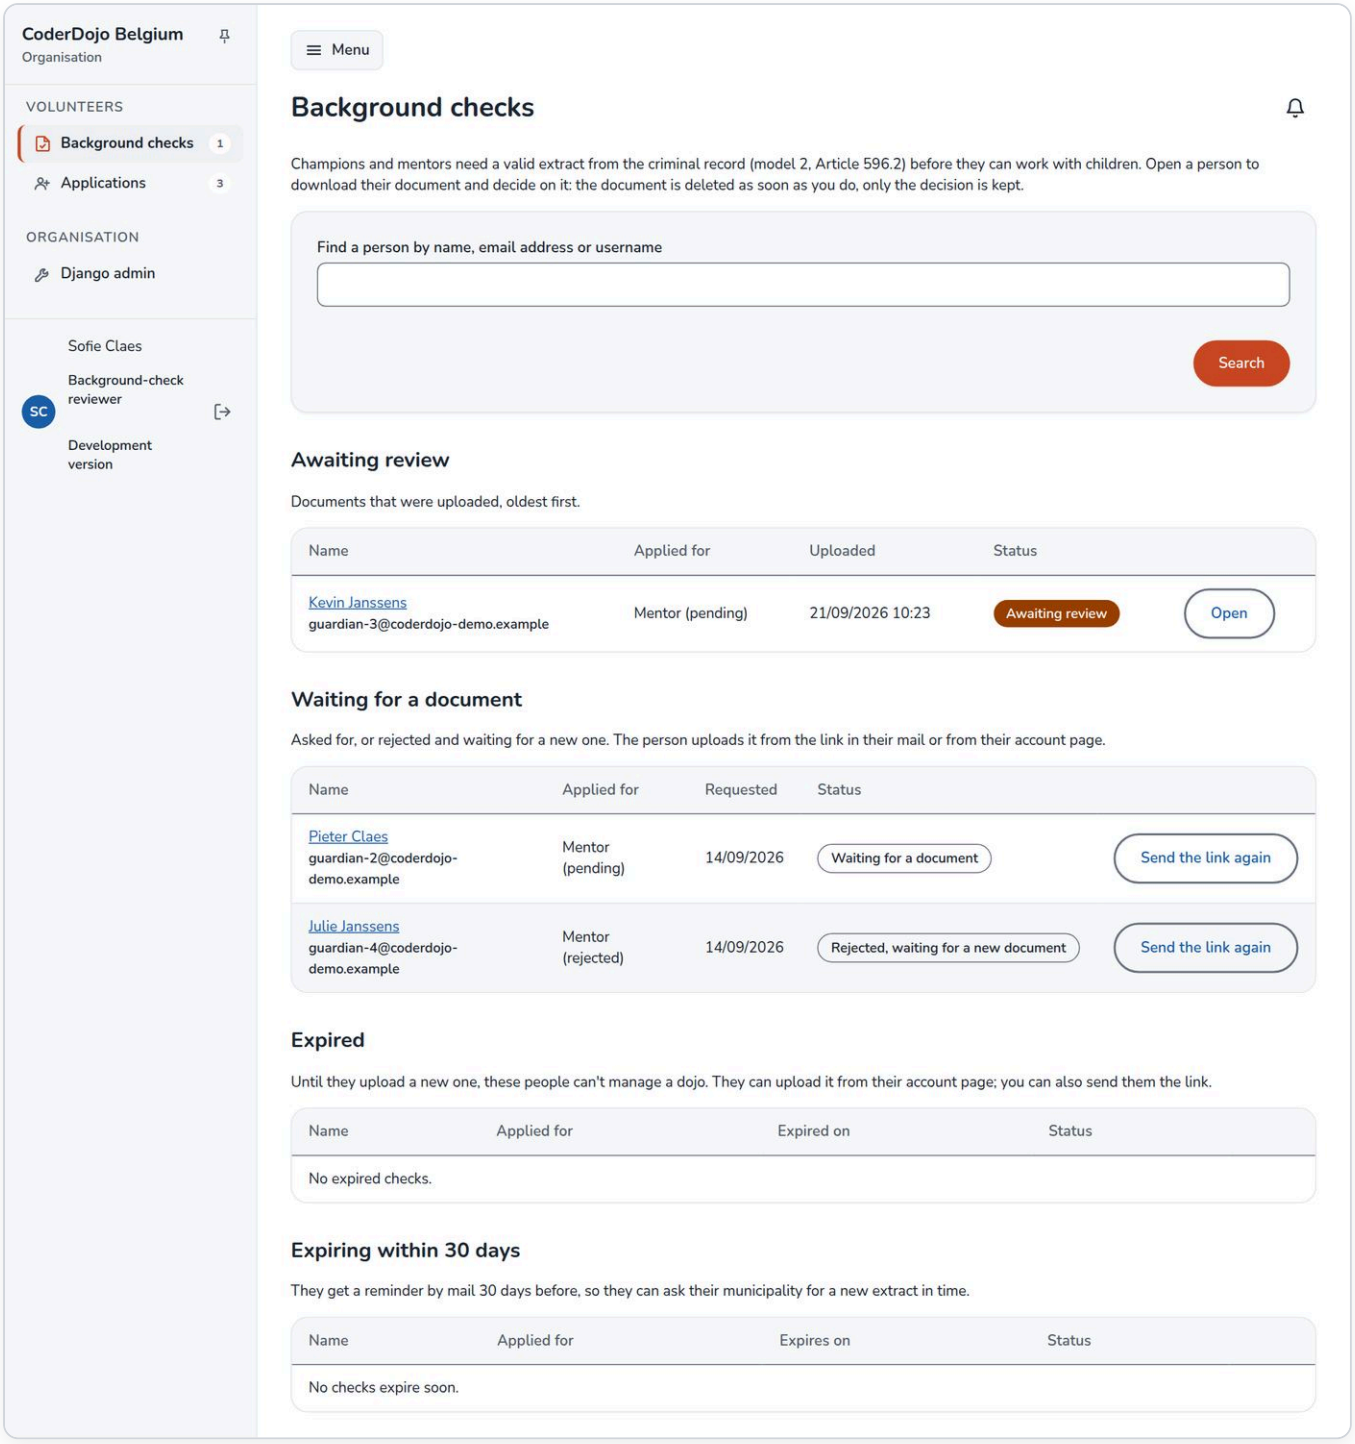

Step 2

Background checks

The reviewer lands on the Volunteers group, the only pages this role opens. The queue: documents waiting for review, checks waiting for a document, and expired or expiring checks.

`/manage/checks/`

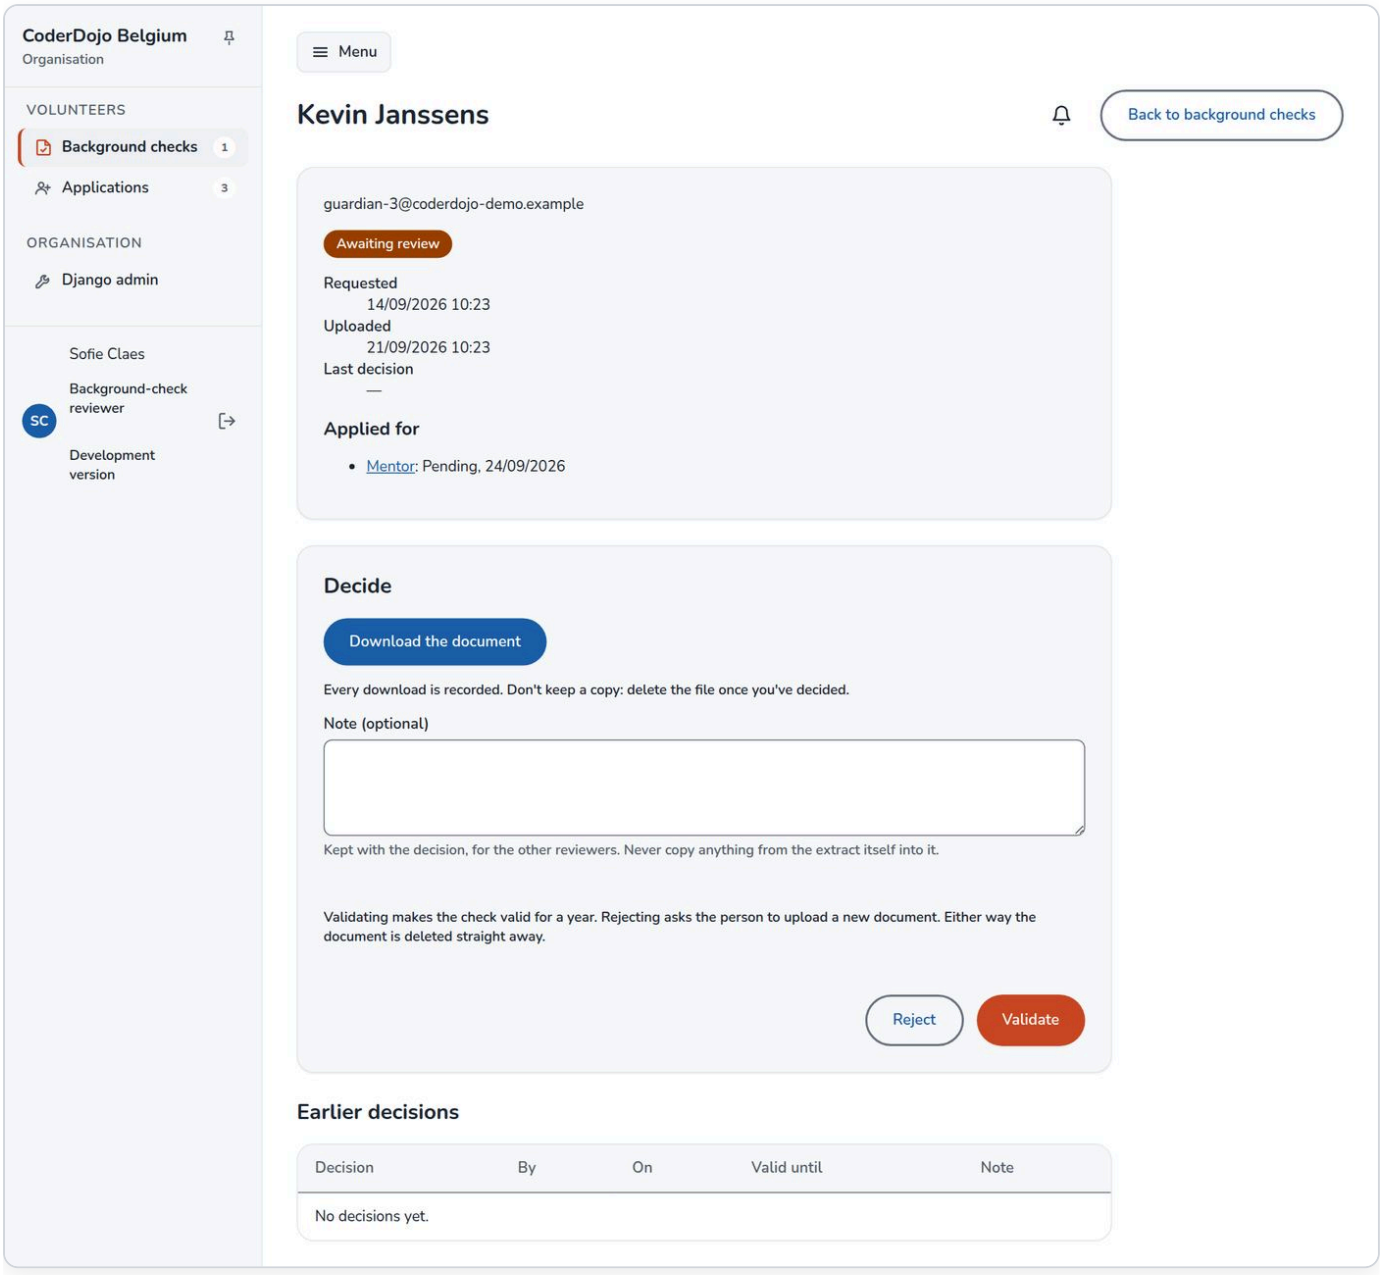

Step 3

Reviewing one check

One person's check: download the document, then validate or reject it. Either decision deletes the document immediately; only the decision, the reviewer and the expiry date are kept. Opening this page is recorded in the audit log.

Step 4

Applications

Mentor and champion applications, with the state of each applicant's background check.

`/manage/applications/`

Step 5

Deciding an application

With a valid check the reviewer approves (an approved mentor can then join dojos; a champion can create one) or declines. Nobody decides on their own application or check.
